Sally E. Coyle, Principal, PLA, ASLA, CLARB
Coyle & Caron, Inc., established 2002.

I am a cofounding principal with Coyle & Caron, a WBE and award-winning LA studio based in Orlando. Our practice is dedicated to creativity, design excellence, and collaboration. Our work includes multi-disciplinary teams in the design and planning of public and private places focused on environmental stewardship, species and habitat conservation, learning, social engagement, and play.

Since completing my MLA, I have been fortunate to remain involved in research, writing, travel and teaching including as a guest critic at University of California Berkeley, University of Florida, Rhode Island School of Design (RISD), Harvard GSD and as an instructor at Boston Architectural College, RISD and Harvard GSD.

As a member of ASLA since 2000, I am dedicated to advancing our professional organization including our local chapter in Florida, for this reason I am nominating myself for a leadership position.

BLA, University of Florida with honors, 1985

MLA, Harvard University Graduate School of Design, 1995

LA Licenses: Florida, Massachusetts, New York, and North Carolina
